

On Their Own

Catherine Faber

170 ♩ = 120

The roof - er sets his ham - mer down, and does his le - vel best. To 5 catch the fal - ling rap - tor chick and tuck it in its - nest. They

9 do the good be - neath their hands Al - though they ne - ver see. The 13 po - wer their good will co - mmands, If they can, why not me? If

The weaver hears a tiny cry,
And lays aside her comb,
To help the stranded kitten down
Or lead the puppy home.

They do their deeds and go their way
Not knowing what they've sown.
They do not have a destiny;
They do it on their own.

last chorus: They do the deeds beneath their hands,
Although they never see,
The power their good will commands;
If they can, why not me?
If they can, why not me?
If they can, why not me?

17 they can, why not me - If they can, why not me?